

IP Office Wins Product Of The Year

Avaya announced that INTERNET TELEPHONY® magazine named Avaya IP Office as a Product of the Year winner for 2003.

“When it comes to communications, small and medium businesses are looking for technology solutions that not only come with a return on investment, but can enable their business to flourish,” said Dave Johnson, group vice president, Small and Medium Business Solutions (SMBS) group. “The IP Office is an ‘all in one’ office solution that brings together voice, data and communication applications for small and mid-sized businesses.” Johnson said this enables companies to get full-featured traditional voice functions today and deploy or migrate to IP when needed - at their own path, pace and choice.
